MANIFESTO ABOUT CORRUPTION

In all the countries of the world there are laws that favor a minority to abuse the majority. This corruption of the legislative power can not exist if the judges complied with the law. In addition, if judges complied with international laws, such as human rights, they would not comply with unfair laws.

In all countries of the world public money is used for the benefit of a minority and to the detriment of a majority. This corruption of the executive power (government) can not exist if the judges complied with the law.

In fact, the main function of the Rule of Law is that judges do not allow the abuse of public administrations, because if this abuse were habitual, it would be because the law is not complied, which means that there is no Rule of Law . On the other hand, since the Rule of Law is the fundamental pillar of democracy, if judges do not protect citizens from the abuse of institutional power, democracy would become an authoritarian regime.

Political corruption is widespread in all countries of the world and is publicly recognized, especially by the work of Transparency International. However, judicial corruption is also widespread in all countries of the world (World Justice Project and in Europe: www.stopjudicialcorruption.org), but the institutions do not recognize it, precisely, to avoid questioning the rule of law and democracy.

Because of the aforesaid, it is said that judicial corruption is the "cancer of society" and, as one Spanish judge said, "judicial corruption is the mother of corruption". In other words, judicial corruption causes institutional corruption, including the politics that is the best known, and corporate corruption.

The cancer of judicial corruption is unstoppable and also extends to all organizations and individuals, producing dangerous and decadent societies, so forcing judges to comply with the law is the main responsibility of the people and organizations of a society.

European Movement for Justice

Politicians will never make judges comply with the law because it is contrary to their two main interests:

- Enrich themselves using the public powers.
- Maintain these unfair societies, where a minority takes advantage of the majority.

For this, politicians promote the IMPUNITY of the judges from the legislative power and from the executive power. IMPUNITY of judges is the biggest problem in Europe and politicians not only do nothing to avoid it, but encourage it.

DECADENCY

According to the European Union:

For the first time in Europe's recent history there is widespread fear that today's children will be less well off than their parents' generation. Today, we live an age of insecurity.. (A report to the European Council by the Reflection Group on the Future of the EU 2030, May 2010).

In this regard, there are three observations:

1. Why of insecurity having a technology that allows greater control of human activity? It is evident that insecurity is produced by the very rich macro-State.
2. The truth is that the current generations of young people in rich countries are living worse than their parents' and if there is no substantial change in the public sector, future generations will live even worse and more enslaved by the system.
3. How is it possible to live worse if the business world every day creates more wealth? It is evident that the increase in the poverty of the people is due to the increase in the enrichment of the macro-State that uses public money to the detriment of the standard of living of the majority.

SOLUTION

Having said that, the European social sector has to carry out two main tasks:

1. Make visible judicial corruption in all countries.
2. Propose solutions to eliminate the IMPUNITY of the judges. From the Spanish social sector, it is encouraging that judges be judged only by a Popular Jury, as established by the Spanish Constitution of 1812.

The European Movement for Justice has made a petition that will be promoted through the 35 European countries to which it directs its activity, trusting that the social sector and social networks, help in the work of raising awareness of the problem, in the promotion of the solution, in the divulgation of this petition and in other activities aimed at ending with the IMPUNITY of judges and with the decadent institutional and social corruption.
